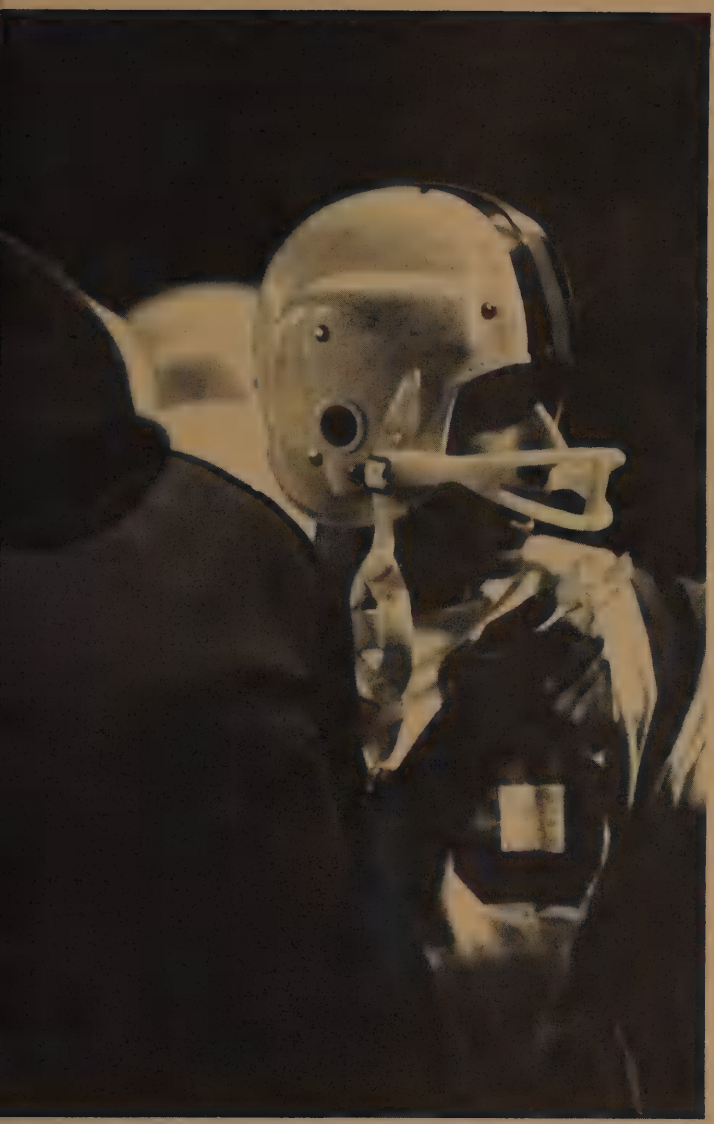
EXISTENCE



'66 at

CARDINAL STRITCH HIGH SCHOOL • OREGON, OHIO

This was the year of the scene. The stage was Stritch. The play was life. And the lead was played by you. You made the scene in the new look-the '66 look-the "in" look. You were the stylesetter. The '66 styles you wore ranged from the classical skirts and sweaters to geometrically designed outfits by Courrege. You wore everything from white boots to burgandy loafers, to paisley ties. You were an individualist. A leader not a follower. Not even "camp" was too gone for you-the Stritch student. This was your scene and you made it.

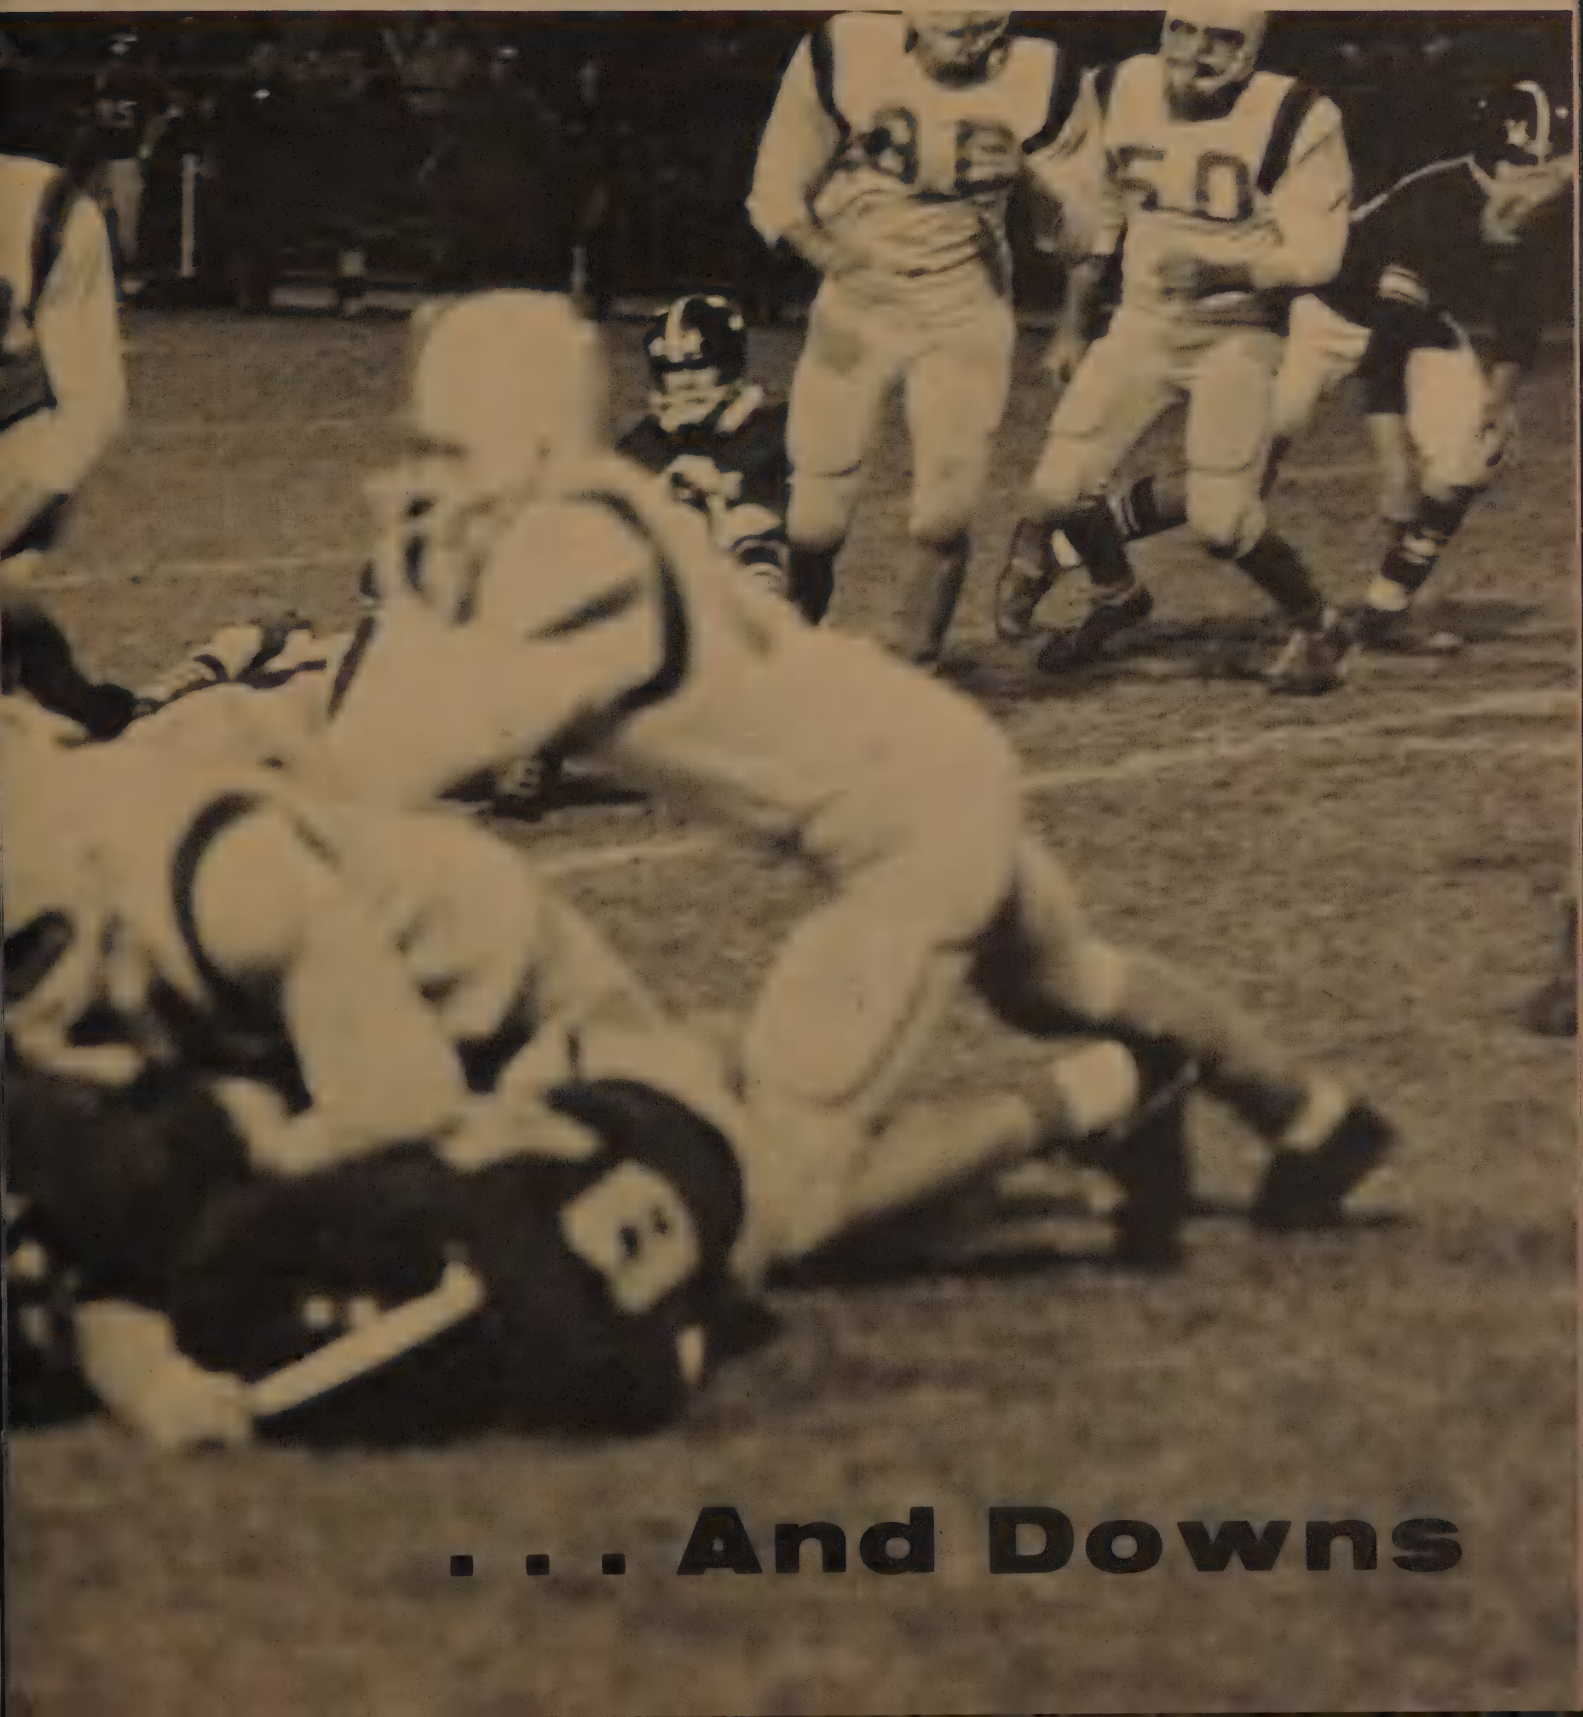
You were a part of a great game — football. No matter who you were, spectator, band member, cheerleader, coach, or player, this sport affected you. You worked together with your friends to make each game better than the last. By Wednesday of each week posters began appearing. These were made by you to give you and your team the encouragement needed for a victory. Friday afternoon usually meant rallies. Your spirit shook the bleachers — many times too much — the gym, and the whole school. But it didn't really matter as long as it did something for your team. By the night of the game you were really ready to fight. You, the spectator, were seen packing the stadiums — some as far as 100 miles away — and you were heard — were you ever heard. And what you were heard yelling were such Stritch favorites as "Eat 'Em Up" and "Battle Cry."



. . . And Downs

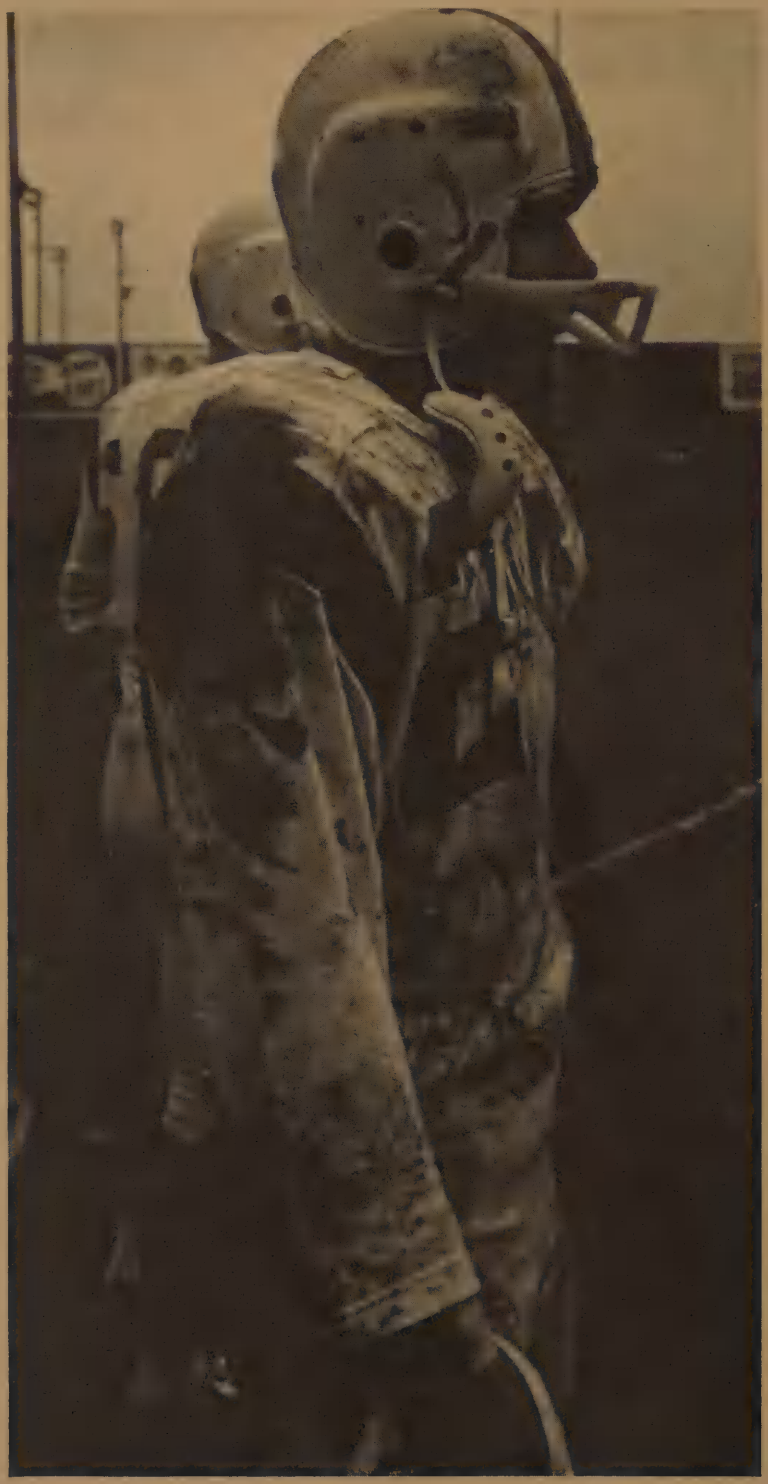
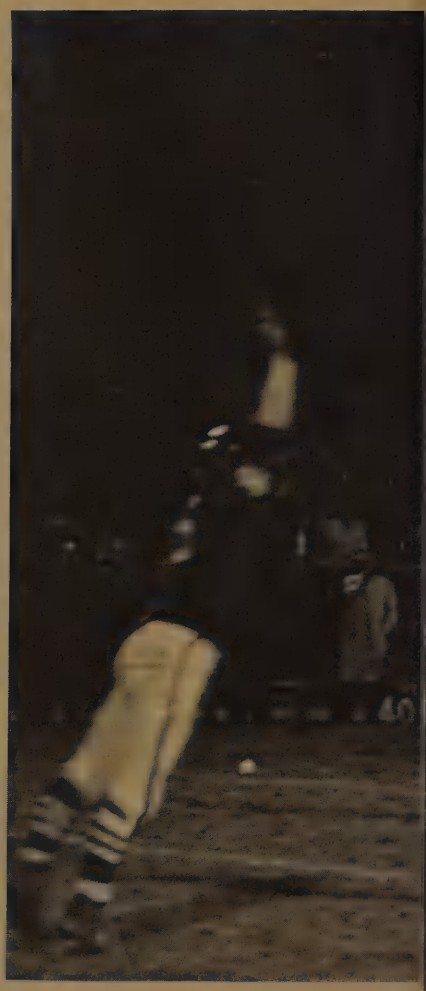
waited . . .



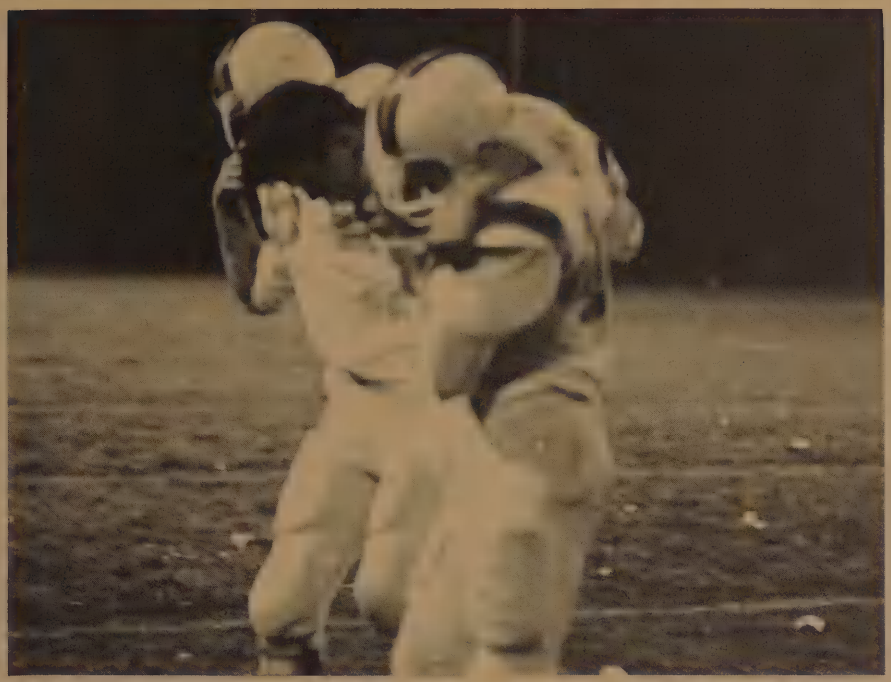
Sharon Stoiber, Varsity Cheerleader

For you the player, the football season was long and hard. Many hours of practice and many injuries were survived for what sometimes turned out to be defeat instead of glorious victory.
But you had the guts to forget these and come back with plenty of action on the grid-iron to accumulate your share of victory.
You the coaches were looked up to and criticized by many before your day came to an end. Your job was to keep your team in shape and to give them that extra push when morale was low. You made both friends and enemies — how many because of a cherished whistle-drill? — but you usually came out on top as soon as the season was over.
As a member of the band, you kept the screamers, in time while you added some screams of your own.

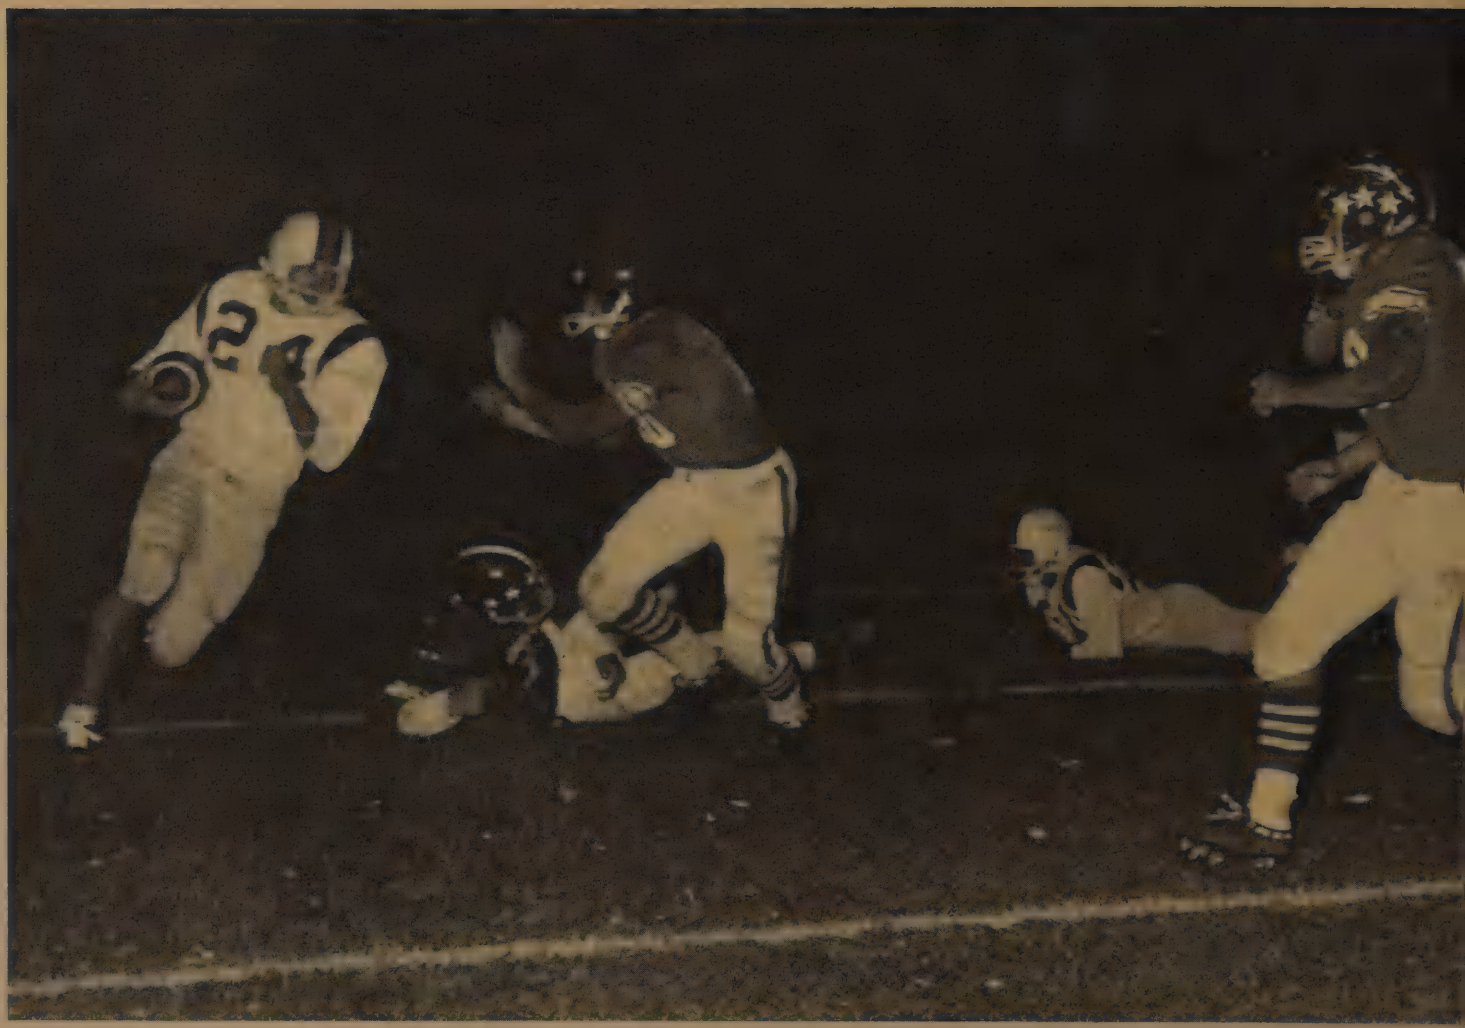


Chash Drlik, Varsity Cheerleader

. . . then fought . . .



Sally South, Varsity Cheerleader



And you the cheerleader kept the crowds in hand while giving your unending energy to support your team. When you all got together at the stadium, it was quite a scene. You were each individuals, you each had a mind of your own. But at the game it was one for all and all for one. And the one you were for was football, not just any football, but Stritch football — your game.

. . . cheered . . .

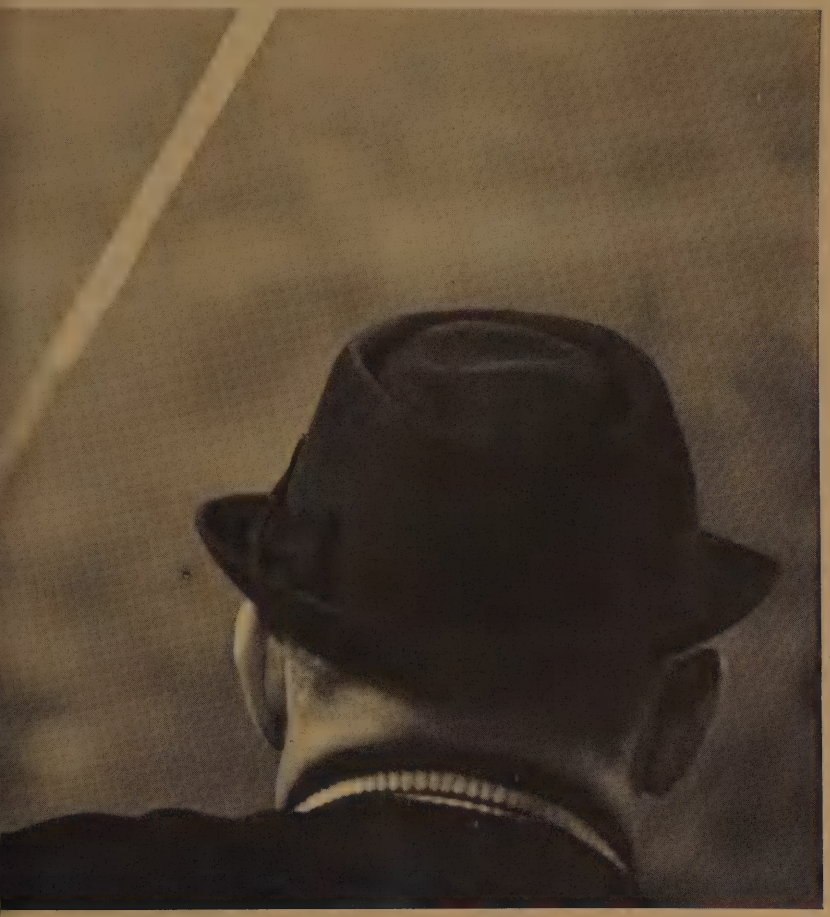
encouraged.



Sue Ann
Dunn,
Varsity
Cheerleader

This year you finally had your homecoming. Weeks of planning and hard work went into making it the best.
You seniors, along with a few threatened freshmen, spent many a study hall making paper flowers for the float. It might have been a lot of work, but, when you all got together to work on it, it was a panic.
The homecoming game was a winner. It was a close one, but this only added to the excitement. The half-time ceremonies were highlighted by the appearance of the Queen and her court. "Royalty in Red" was the climax of the evening. The decorations were fancy, as was the whole affair. And, it was all done by you.
You were complimented too. Even by the alumni who thought they had left the school in incompetent hands. You proved that anything they could do, you could do better — or almost anyhow.
But the night was soon over, leaving you each to your own memories and hopes. Hopes that next year you, the seniors would return to see another homecoming, and that you, the underclassmen would top Homecoming '66.

. . . And Ups . . .

Following the football season, you came indoors for basketball. The sound of cheers, boos, and dribbling balls rang loud and clear. Action was a key word for you this year in basketball. Although you lost half of your games, you always provided plenty of action. The games you played were always fast and stirring, seldom dull. You could shoot one basket and change the outcome of the whole game. Your passes flew from one end of the gym to the other, smacking into the hands of another player. You were wild! Even as a spectator you let the frenzy of the game get a hold on you and you never quite gave up. Coaches jumped onto the floor to call out last minute instructions. The crowds flew up row by row as the game moved down court. And the Pep Club and the Varsity S added their share of spirited action too. They also jumped and screamed but they unified the actions of the whole crowd.

Varsity Cheerleader

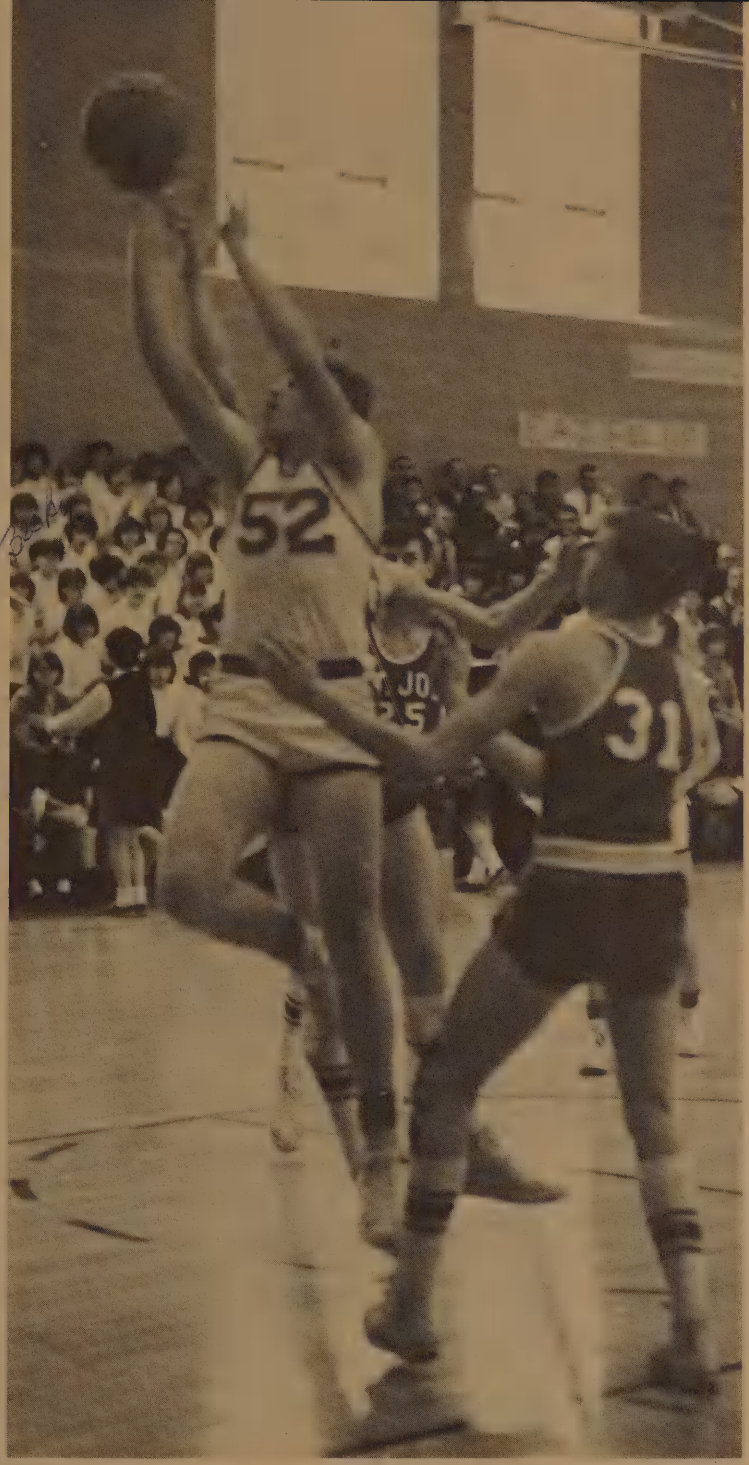
. . . so you could pass . . .



. . . and shoot.

The game was excitement itself. Balls blasting against backboards and people. Tennis shoes slapping the floor. Players slamming into one another. Bleachers rattling and crashing to the floor. The referees' whistles stopping everything cold. They followed every move, steps, double dribbles, elbows, these were never missed. The inevitable always came — "Foul — on you." Then, a moan from the crowd.

It was a rare moment when silence prevailed. It usually fell during the close moments. These you remember all too well. So many games were lost by only a few points. But you accepted these and tried again with the same fury you had before. Your losses were discouraging, your triumphs great. They both were a part of you.

The season ended and you came out even with a much wanted victory for a finish. You weren't on the top, or on the bottom. But you did give Stritch basketball a new meaning — wild action and excitement.

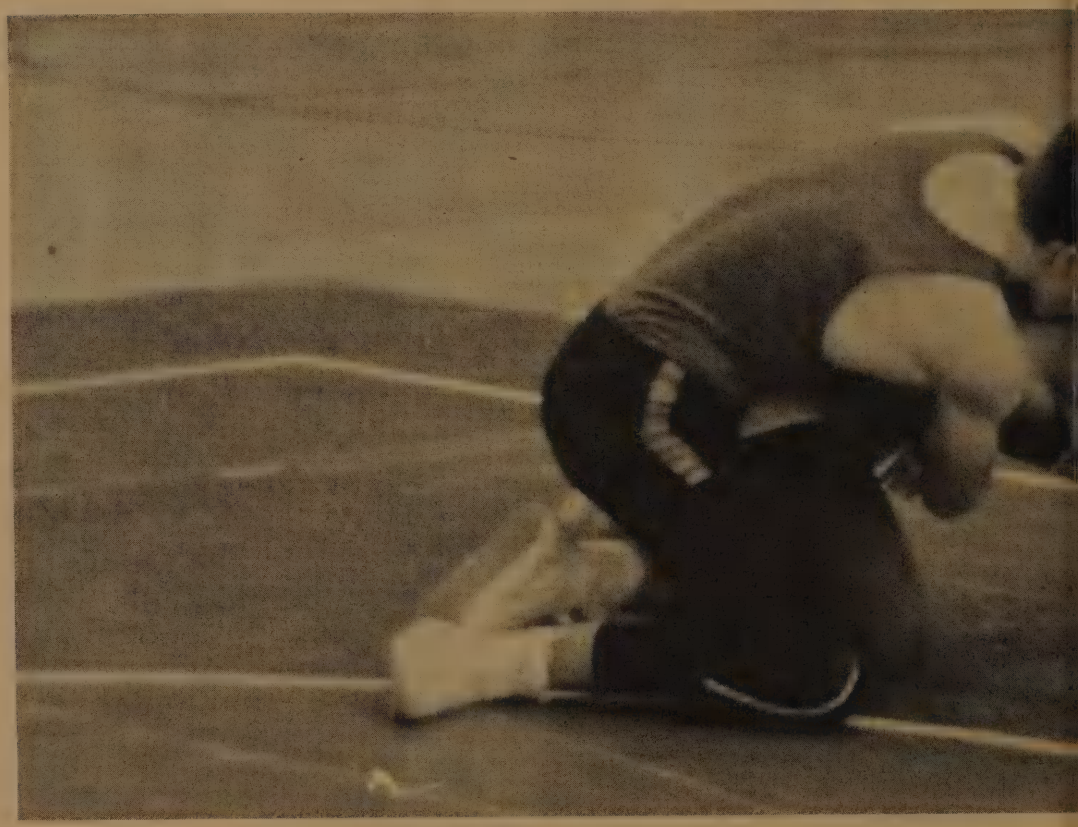
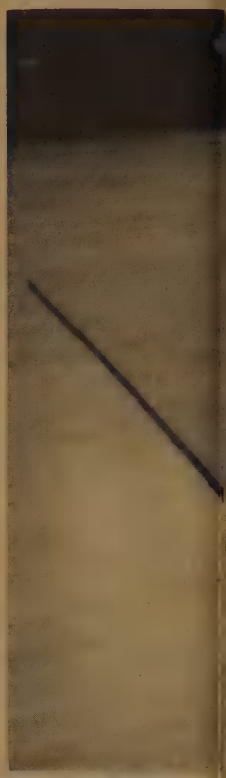
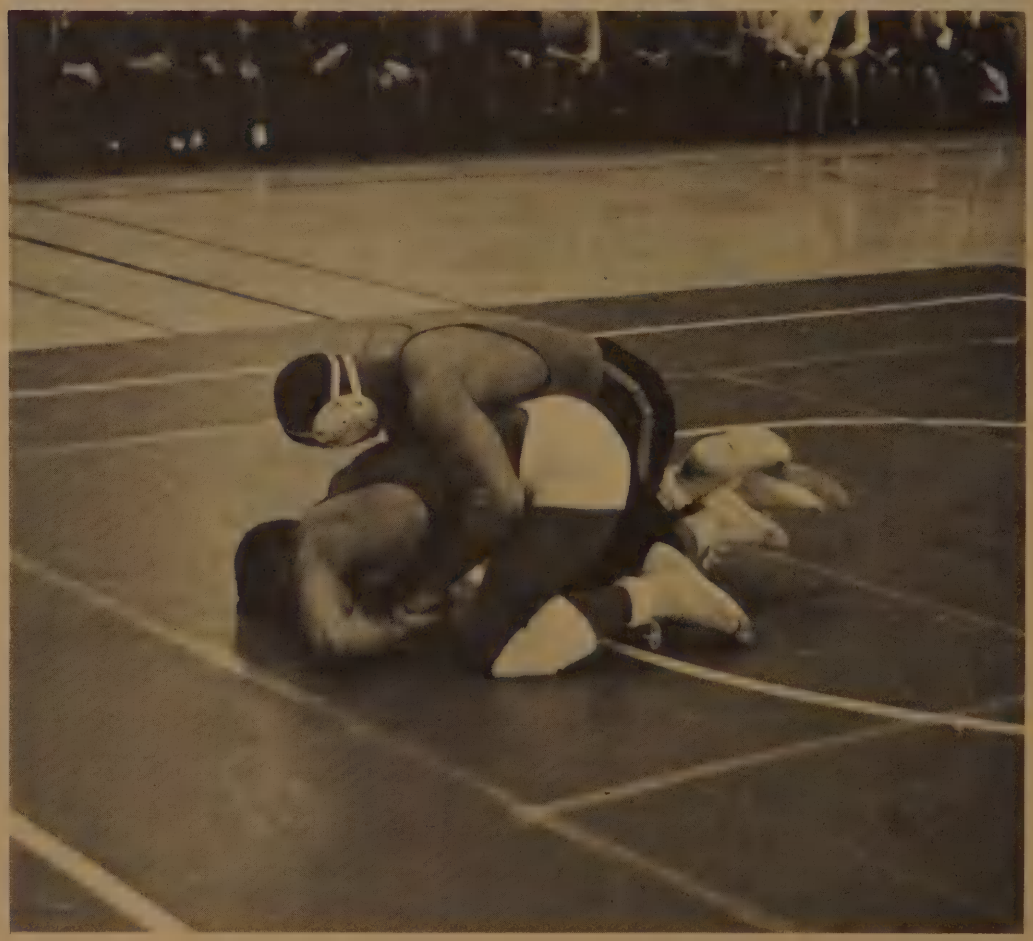
Your wrestling team was a wow! You knew you were winners and you supported your team more than any other school in the area. You came to the meets and filled the stands. And, even though you had to make up most of the yells, you cheered. It took some of you, especially you from the west wing, a while to catch on to such terms as "take-down," "sit-out," and "escape," but once you did nothing stopped you from completely enjoying the sport. Even those of you who never learned them knew enough to tell who was winning. Holy erasers! the chalkboard sure helped!
When it came to wrestling you gave it the works! You stopped eating just to get down to the right weight limit. You practiced and did exercises every night. You risked and often succumbed to numerous injuries. You kept your grades up to par. You took orders from the coaches — no questions asked — even if it meant a penalty.

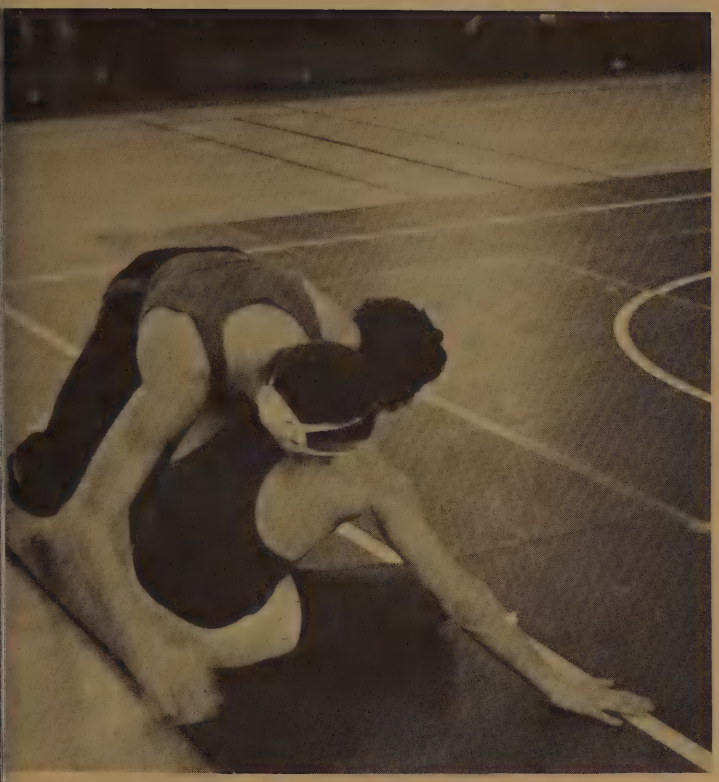


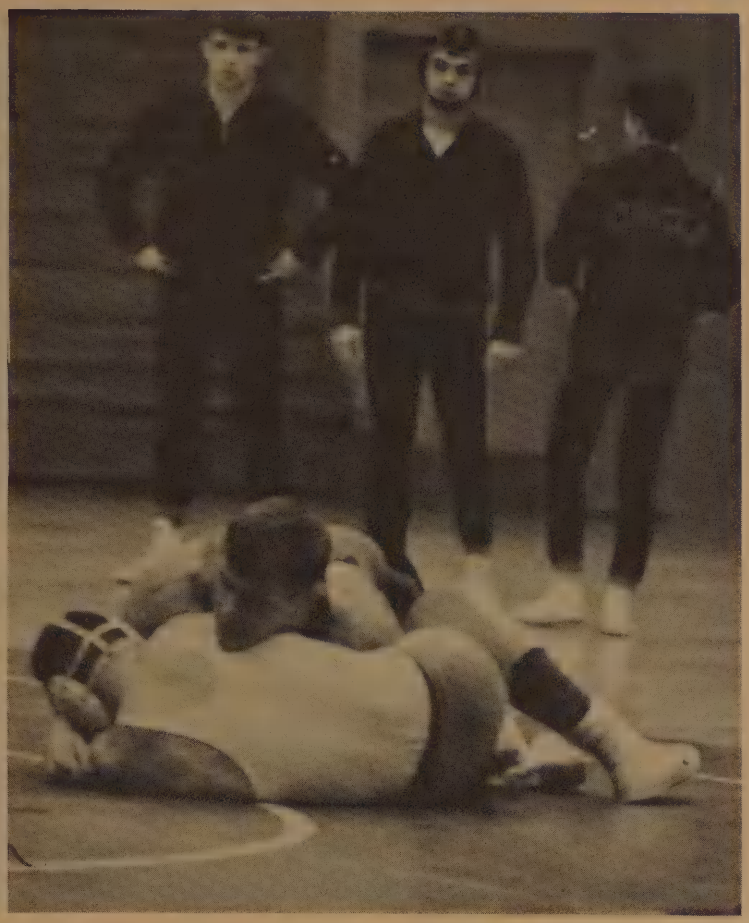
. . . And Takedowns . . .

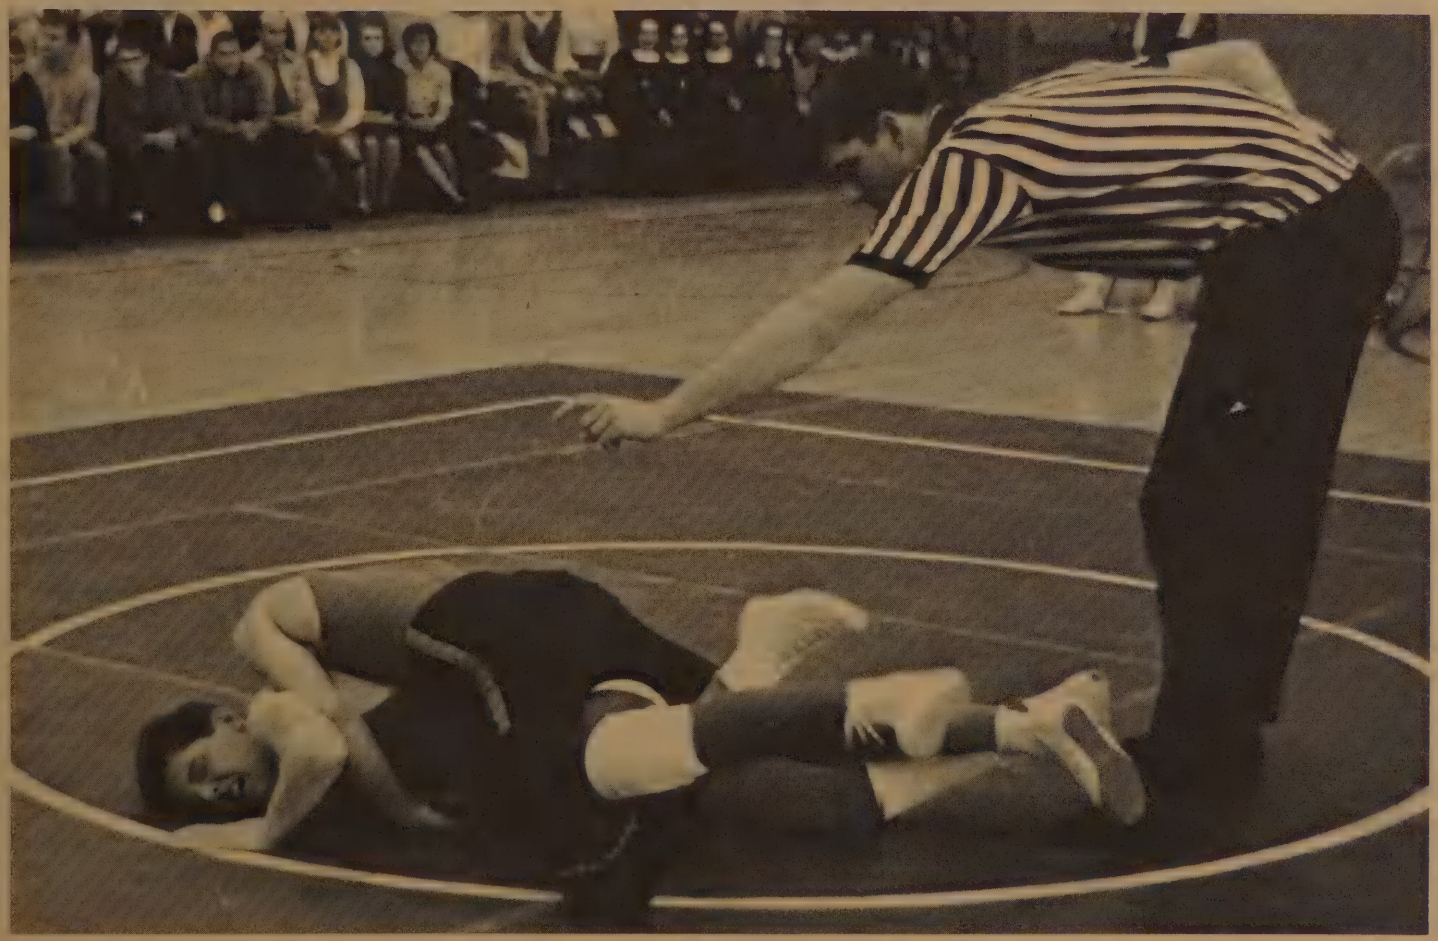
You gave up the long-awaited weekends on the town. These were far from easy temptations to overcome. But, you did all these things just so you could get out on the mats for six minutes and wrestle. Just so you could have your chance at a victory. Many times you pinned, many times you decisioned. Still, there were many times you lost and it seemed the sacrifices were all for nothing. But there was always next week and you kept right on trying.
And you tried again and again until you did win. And you kept right on winning until you ended up with a victorious season on the mats. You, the grapplers, had done it. You had shown everyone, including yourselves, that Stritch wasn't just the school out on Pickle Road. You had shown them that Stritch was a winner. You had shown them that they had better watch out because you had something and you knew you had it — a wrestling team — one of the best.

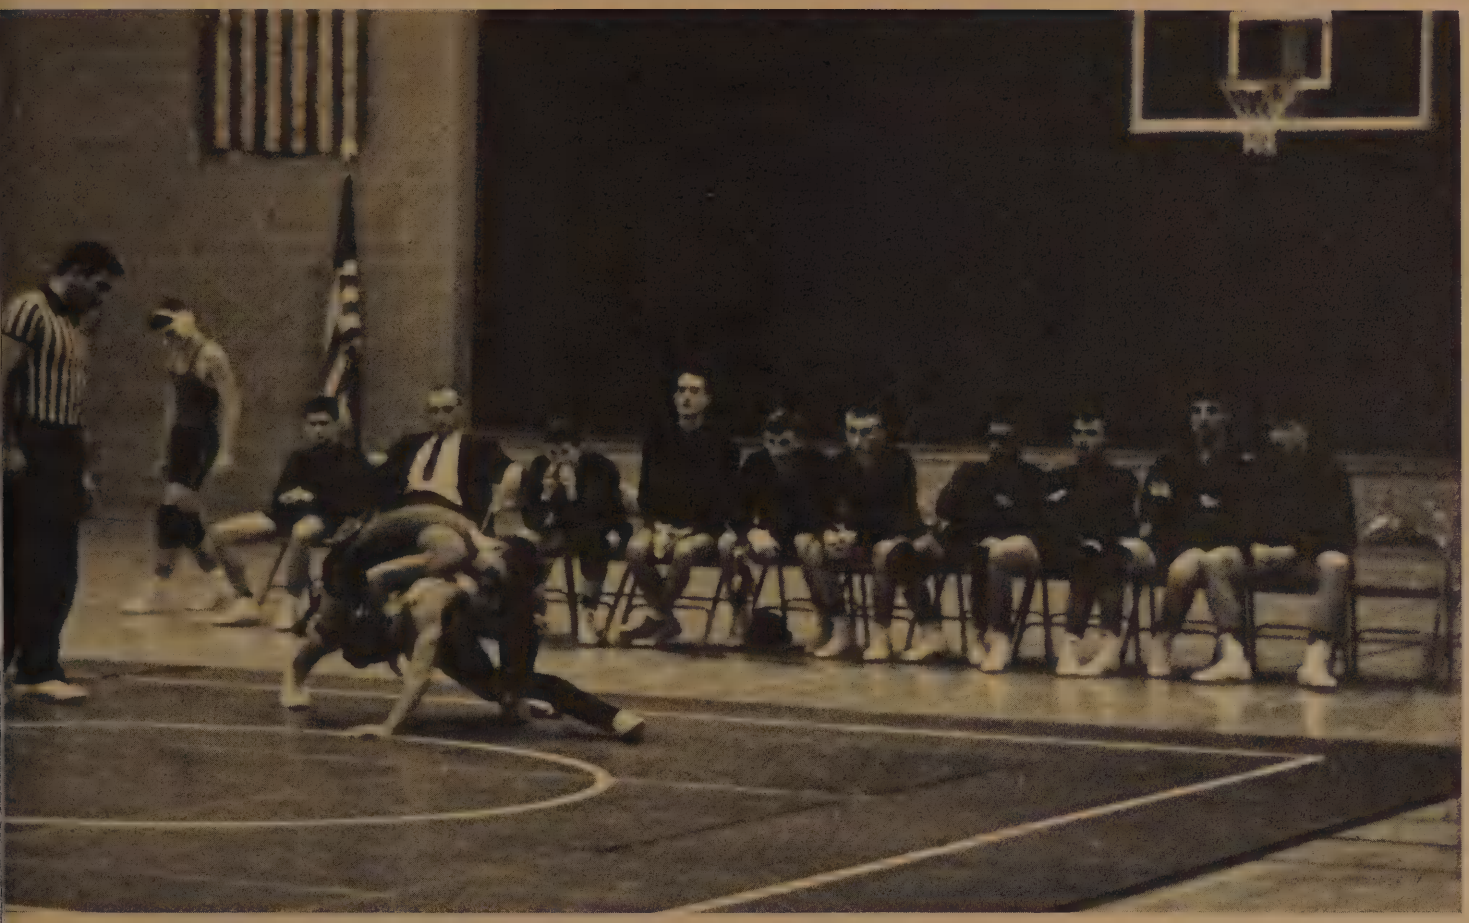


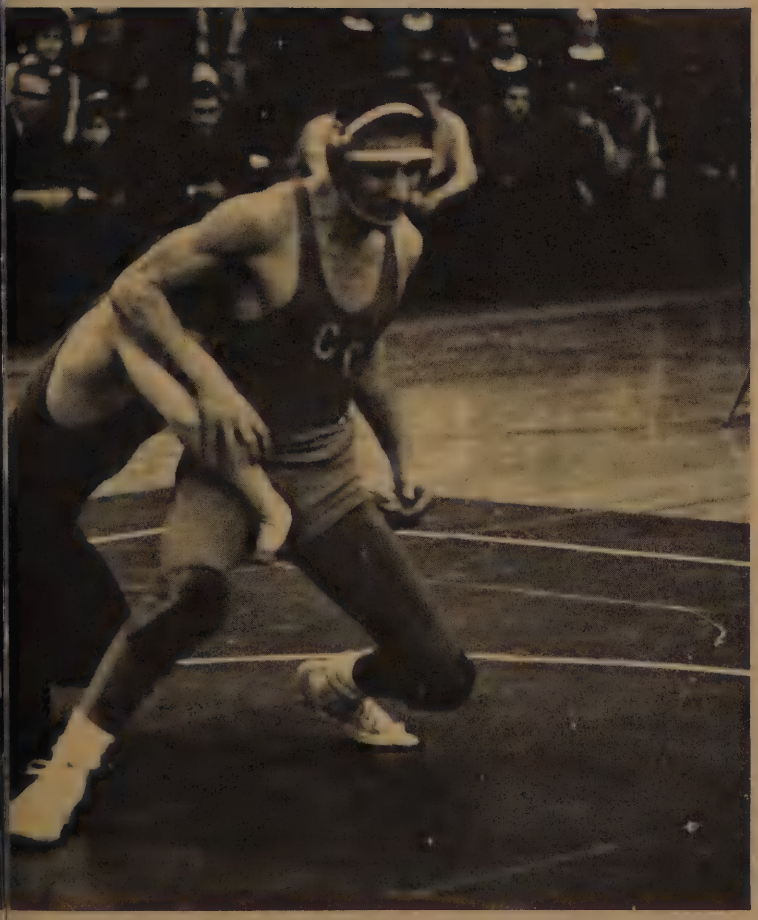












. . . And Upbeats . . .

Your year was filled with fast-moving excitement. It was the year of the scene and you were making it. The dances you did were the Jerk, the Monkey, the Wooly-Bully—all these and many more were your dances. You came to your own dances but also went to all the ones in the area. Clayhops and S.E.R.A. could be seen dotted with you, Stritch students. After the dances, everyone crowded to Frisch's and MacDonald's. Cars could constantly be seen streaming through these hangouts and yours was always among them.
When nothing else was happening, you held parties. The most popular form was the open-house. They were never fancy just casual and a real panic!
You held picnics, went tobogganing, canoeing, and horsebackriding. Anything that was wild and "insanely" different—as long as it turned you on. You kept a fantastic pace and lived a thrilling year, You never stopped and you never will!

OHIO

Your day didn't end with the three o'clock bell. Your life was filled with millions of events outside the confines of Stritch. The headlines of the year affected you because they were about you. It was your world and you had the biggest part in it. It was a world of advances and declines and it surrounded you. Many were good, many were bad—each affected you in a completely different way. Sometimes you were stunned—other times you were overjoyed. The year held both smiles and frowns, and each was a part of you and your existence.

Viet Nam is a small country, almost halfway around the world. Yet it affected you. It meant a change to almost all of you. There was a war and you were part of it. You had friends there and many of you knew that it wouldn't be long before you were there too. You didn't want to be involved in a war, but you had no choice—it was there. It was one of the first tragedies for you and your generation.

While you spent your days preparing for the future, the future was being prepared for you. Changes were being made throughout the world and the U.S.A. was involved in a good many of these things. This year, the Pope decided to see how things were going over here. For the first time in history, the Holy Father offered sacrifice of the Mass on American soil. Also this year a great Indian leader died and another was elected. Mrs. Indira Gandhi succeeded Shastri as Prime Minister. Many hearings were held by the Senate to determine just how much effort you should give to the War in Viet Nam. Another problem this year was the crisis in the Dominican Republic. The U. S. was rebelled against. But, this was all just a part of being a strong nation. And you, as a part of that nation, had to take the downfalls and the advances right along. with your country. For they were truly yours.

The year was a year of protest, and you were protesting. You started to realize that there were a lot of things you didn't like, and you decided not to put up with them any longer. You protested. It might not have been you, at the demonstrations, but it was your spirit. It was yours because you felt that something had to be done, you were the one to do it.
There may have been a lot of people complaining about you, but you were doing more than they were. Even if nothing came of the marches, you showed everyone that you were interested enough to try.
Civil rights was the most talked about and frightfully so.
It was your generation that became unprejudiced. You were awakened to the fact that no person was any better than another, regardless of race or creed. You didn't believe in segregation. You may have started riots, but you opened your eyes and everyone else's, also. You have not yet finished, you have just begun to fight.

1966 was a year of new events. Things were happening all over and advances were made in many new fields. One of the greatest was in science. Gemini 6 was sent into space and Lieutenant-Colonel White walked in space for the first time. Another advance, closer to home for some of you, was the Second Vatican Council. It brought new rules and changed old ones. And it affected the Mass as can clearly be seen in your chapel. Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay defeated Floyd Patterson in a twelve-round bout. Although there were many advances in the year, there were also some setbacks. For many parts of the nation it was one of the worst winters ever. Shortly after Christmas, New York was hit by an added problem. Because of a short circuit somewhere in Toronto, the wild and bright city was struck dark.

These and many other happenings each added something to your life.

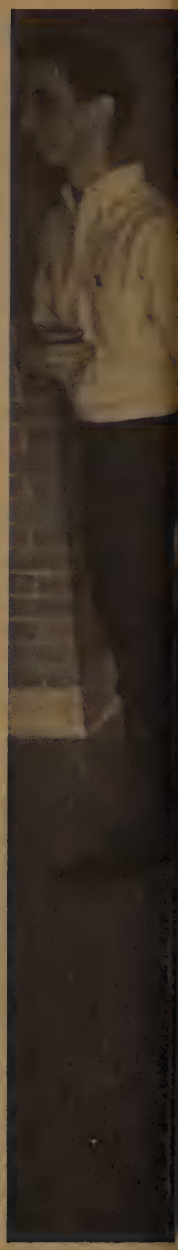
. . . And Up . . .

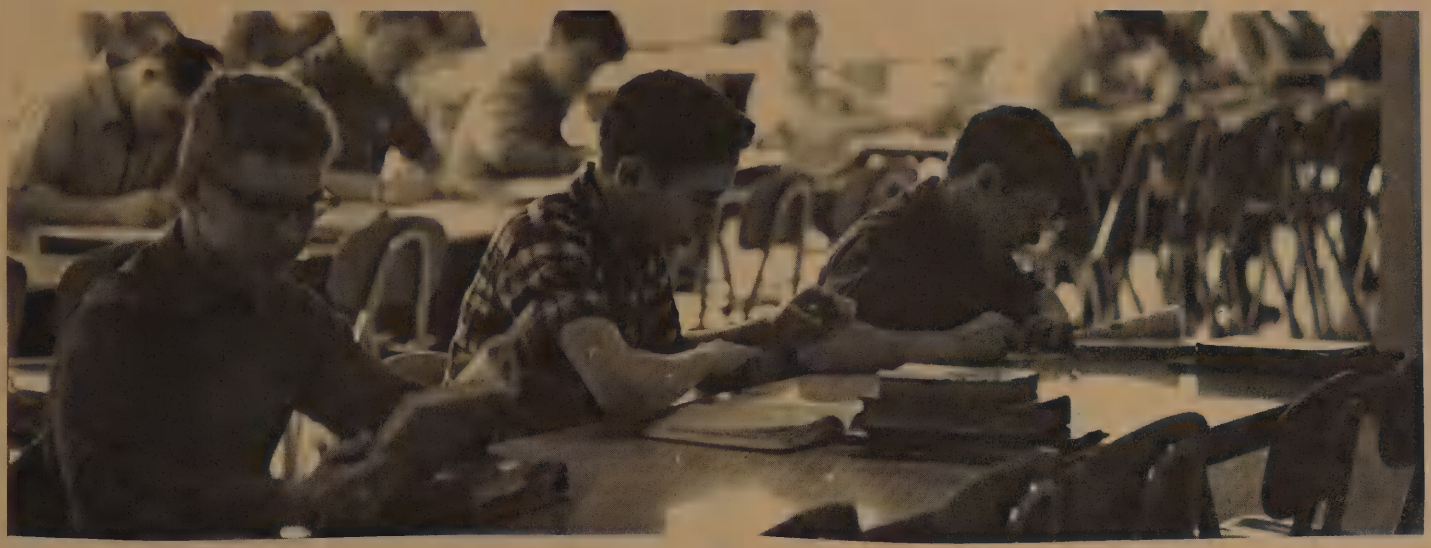
The Church kept changing. in '66. It was becoming a new Church, a modern one. You sensed these changes as you celebrated the Liturgy each week. Your chapel was barely five years old — and this year it changed. The altar was turned so you could see the actions of the priest and participate more easily. The communion rail disappeared. You no longer knelt to receive; you now stood — people and altar came closer together. The Mass changed also in other ways. You now placed your own host in the ciborium and you carried the bread and wine to the priest as your part in the sacrifice. You sang more and you sang together as a unit. You became part of the great whole — You and God. And people were asking, "Is God dead?"



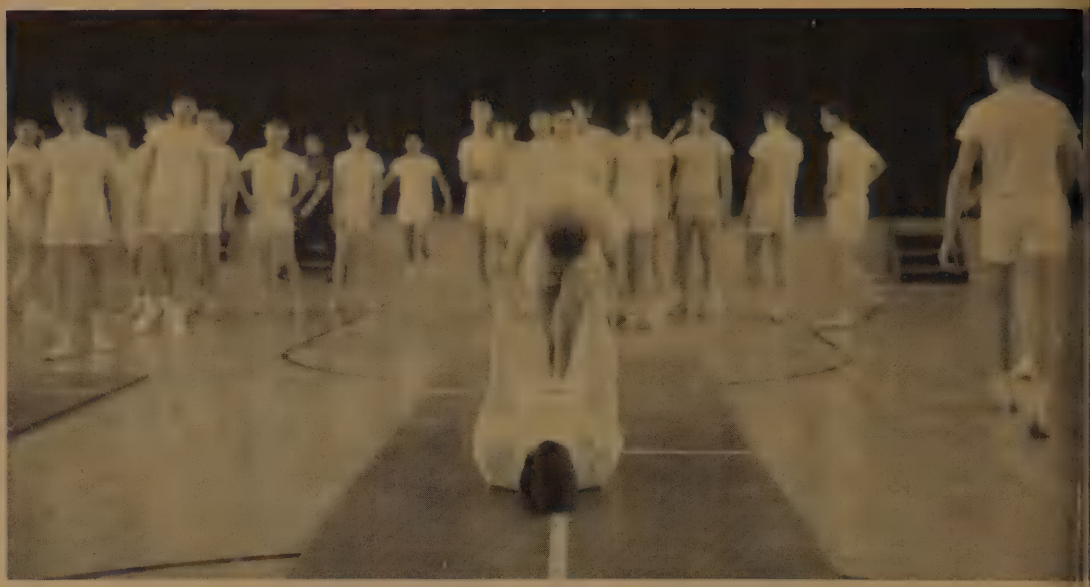
Most of your day was spent in class. Unknown to some it was your main purpose for being here. The day held eight periods — eight different classes. Each was separate and distinct, yet all were united by one main factor — a giving of knowledge.

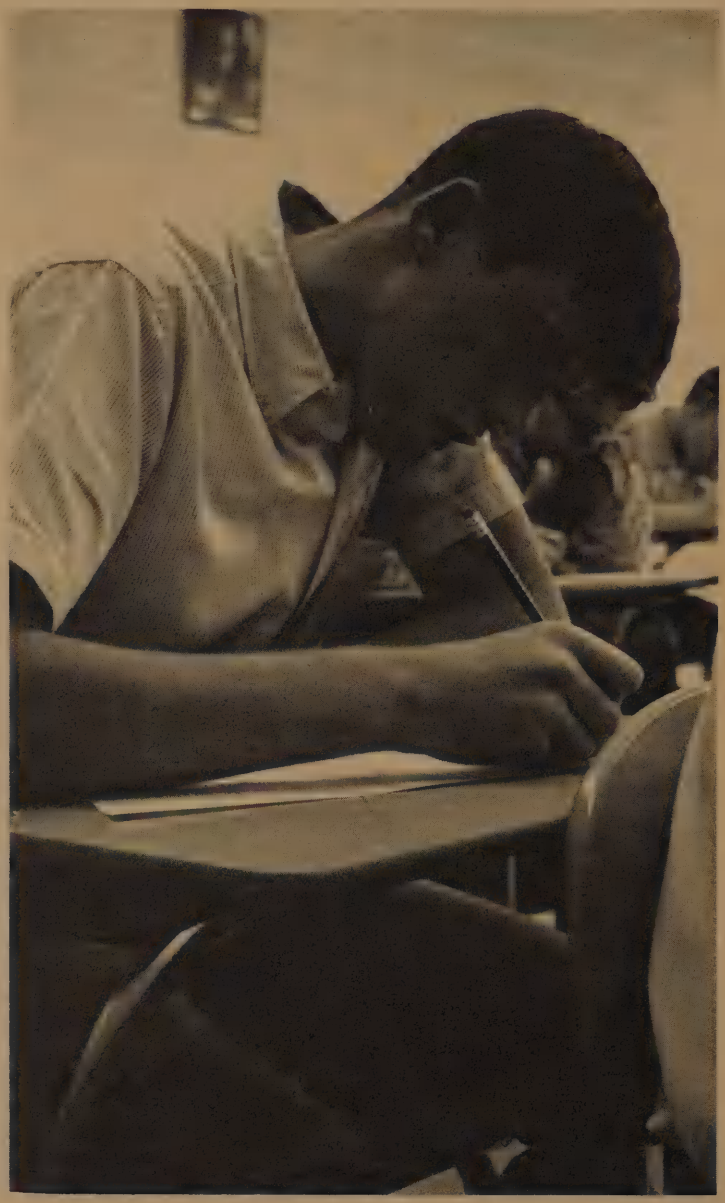
Some classes were completely serious but most held a few moments of fun. There were times when you were happy with the proceedings and there were times when you thought the buzzer would never sound.

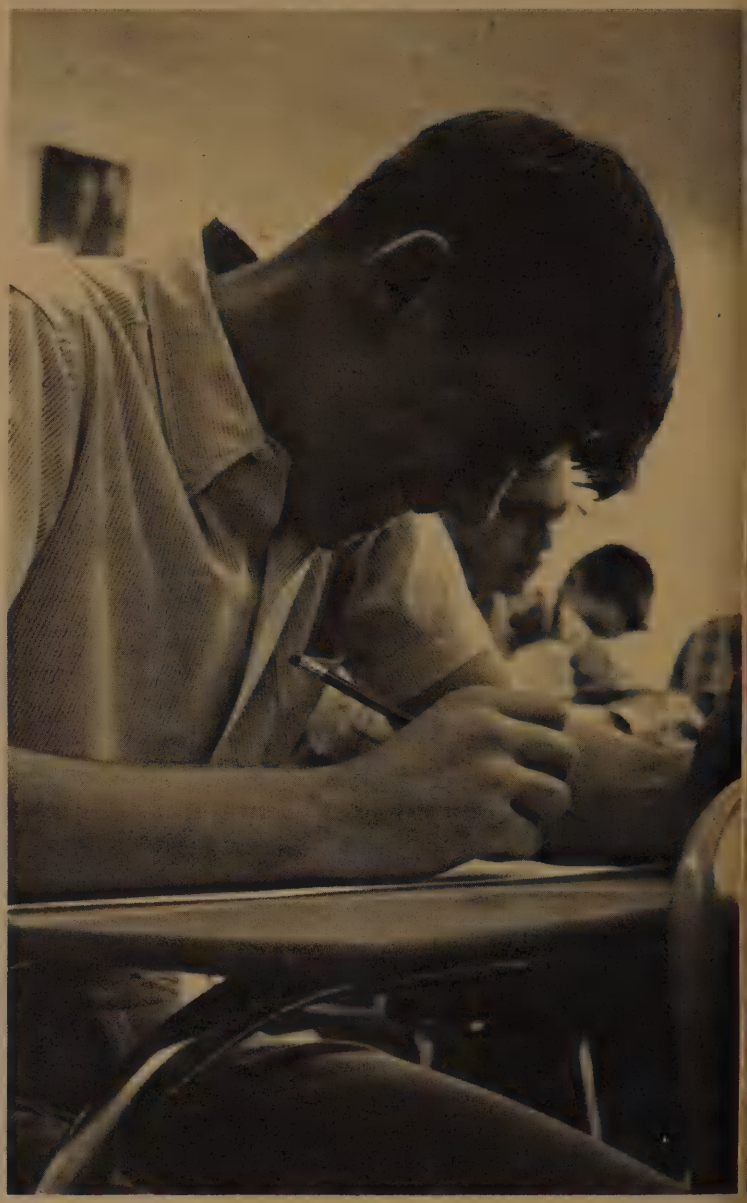
Your class schedule could range anywhere from physics to study-halls. You chose your courses and it was up to you to find the best ones. Some may have been harder and taken more time and effort, but when you came out on top in these, you knew you had achieved something. It wasn't the grades that mattered though, it was how much you put into each class and how much you tried. These were what made you excell. These were what made it more than just a class; these were what made it your class.

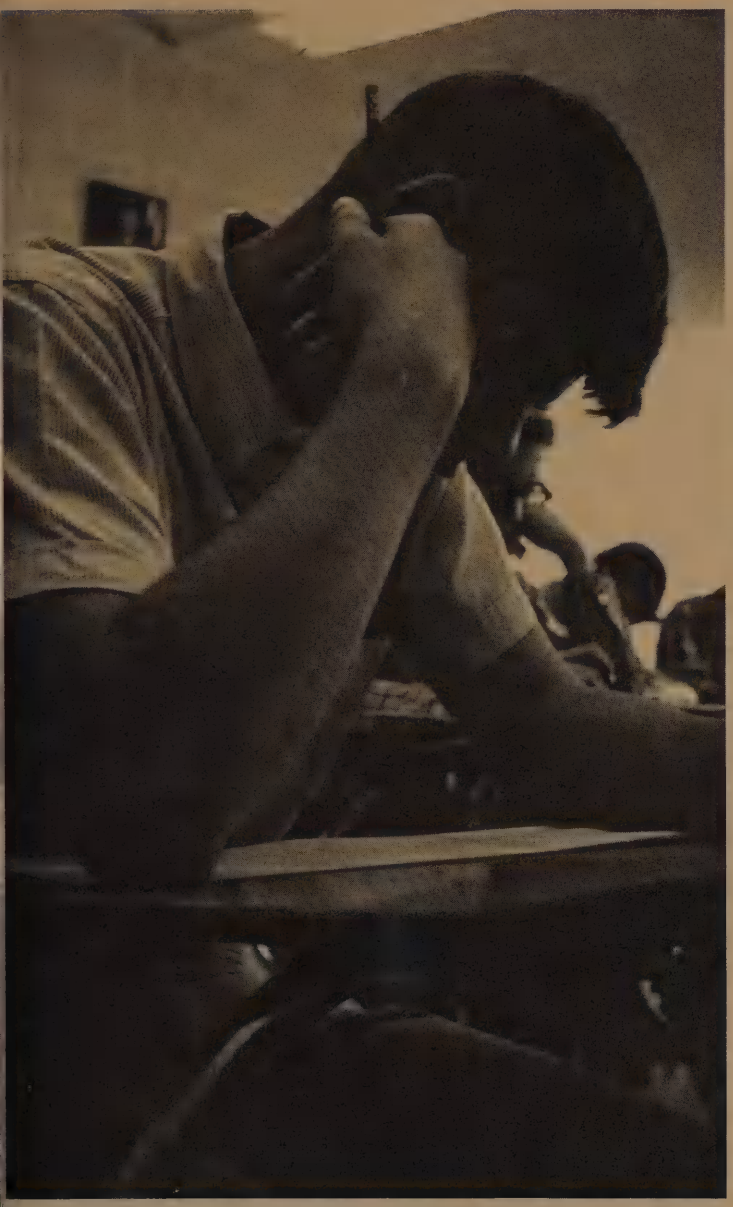


You, the underclassmen took part in athletics every day. You attended phys ed classes and under the direction of Miss Sheibley and Mr. Glinka, you did any number of different things.
You boys held wrestling and basketball intramurals and in the spring there were achievement tests. Points were given for each feat and you gained recognition.
On the west side of the building things were moving too. Softball and basketball games were played between your different squads. You too competed in a physical fitness test. Tumbling was one of your favorite sports. And you all tried to accomplish such great feats as standing on your head, flips and pyramids.
Some of you may have thought these completely impossible at first, but you soon changed that; timewise these classes were a small part of your day—small but important. They gave you what you needed to make you move—and you moved.









. . . And You.

1966 — a great year. Maybe the greatest of your life. You were the one who helped make it the way it was. You were creating the upbeats and the downbeats, the upstarts and the downfalls. You were the one with the hope and the will, and you were the one who suffered the disappointments and celebrated the victories.
Your year was filled with love for all the wonders and hate for the many evils it contained. You added life to the year '66. Without you it might never have been so. You were a part of its many happenings. Some worried you and many you shrugged off without a care; for just as you, by nature, were carefree and swingy, so was your year.
Because this was your year, because this is the story of just how well you lived it, this book is dedicated to you in order that you might not forget — your Existence 1966.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

The Student Council this year reorganized its student government programs by adding committees. These committees are in charge of spirit, decorations at Student Council dances, and fund raising drives.

Senior privileges were OK'd after being brought up by the senior members of Student Council and agreed upon by the administration.

The Cardinal Stritch Student Council belongs to the Toledo Area Student Council and actively participates in its activities.

Under the leadership of their new director, Mr. J. Philip Zaugg, the Cardinal Stritch band showed what a lot of hard work and determination can accomplish. While getting ready for their concerts, marching performances, and appearances at pep rallies, the band members learned that individual talent can be channeled toward one goal: perfection.

TEACHING:

PAPERS, RED PENCILS

FACULTY-ADMINISTRATION • BY BILL BERRY

A WORLD OF BOOKS, GRADES,

. . .EVEN RESULTS

". . .IF THERE WERE ONLY 25 HOURS IN A DAY. . ."

SR. JEANNE MARIE PLAYS ORGAN AS SR. EDWARDINE CAI

Since the school's opening in 1961 the administration and faculty have undergone many changes. The faculty has increased from eight in 1961 to its present number of 40.

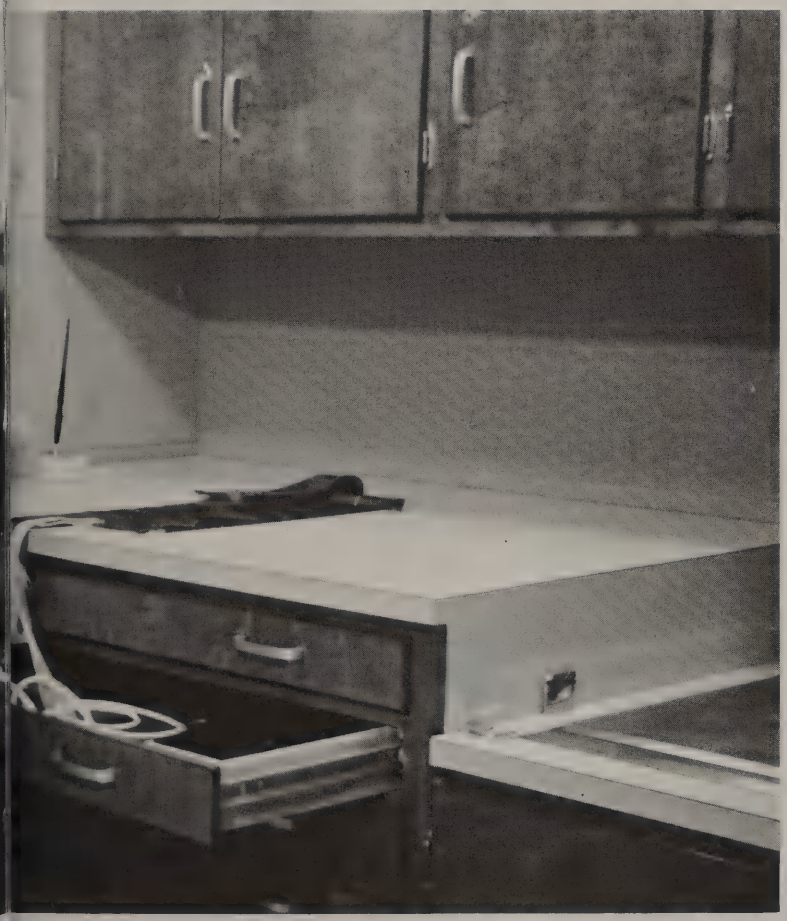
Although the number of faculty members has increased about five times, the quality of teachers still shows the characteristics it did when the school was young. The teachers are still trying to give the students an education they can use in the future.

Here is an idea of the teacher's days from about 8 AM until 4 or 5 PM when he finally arrives home.

SR. GEMMA ON HER WAY TO MASS AT CHAPEL COMES FROM THE CONVENT.

SR. ALCUIN PREPARES FOR THE MASS WHICH THE NUNS ATTEND EVERY MORNING.

RIES THE CIBORIUM UP TO THE ALTAR FOR THE MASS.



SR. BERNADONE REMOVES SHAWL FROM LOCKER FOR THE ▸ SHORT WALK TO SCHOOL.

IN THE MORNING THE FIRST PLACE A TEACHER GOES TO IS TO HIS MAILBOX.

MISS JEANINE SHEIBLEY LOOKS THROUGH MAIL BEFORE CLASSES BEGIN.

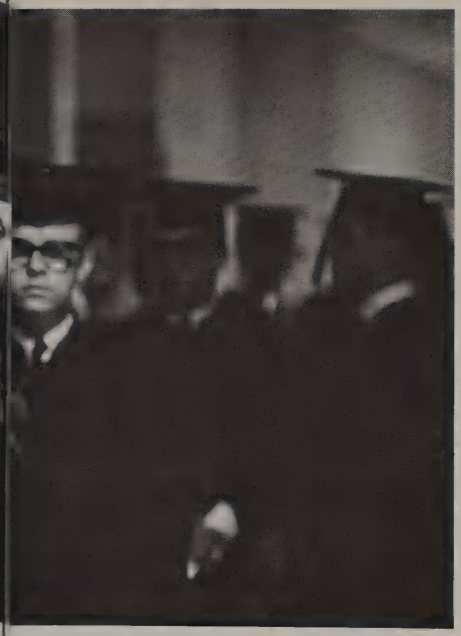
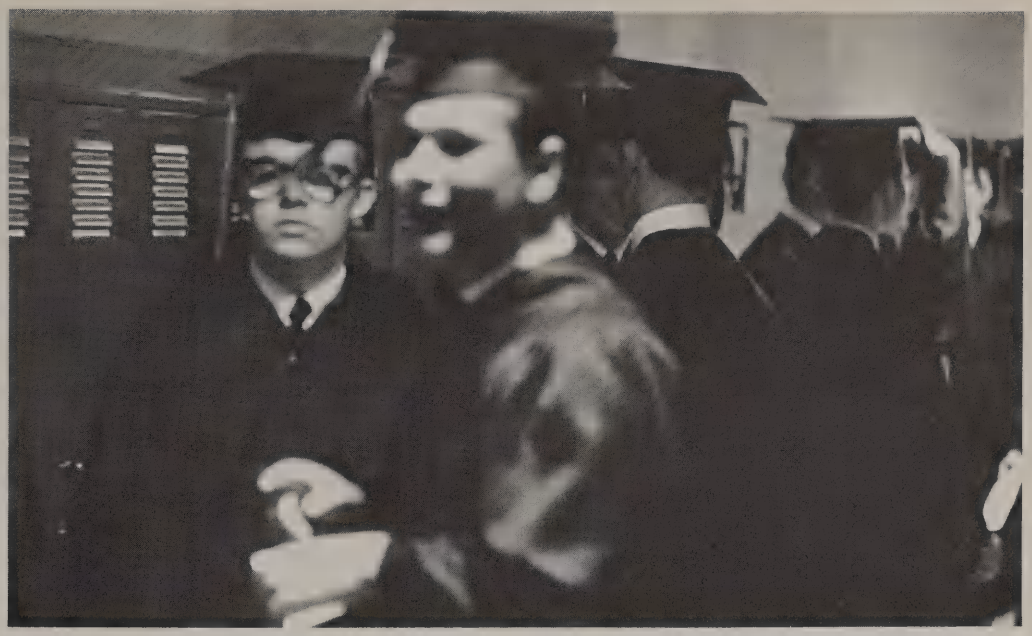
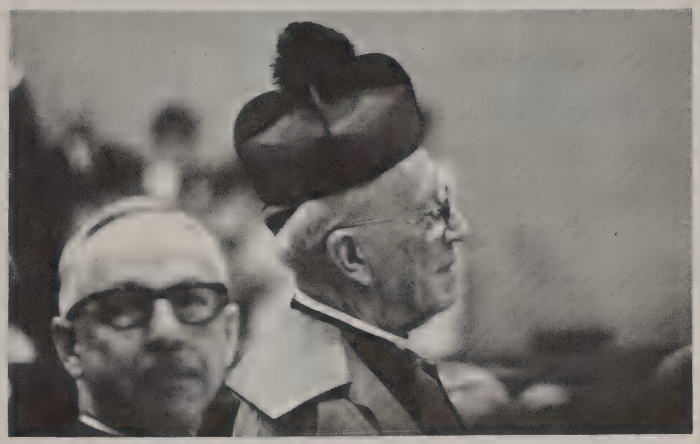
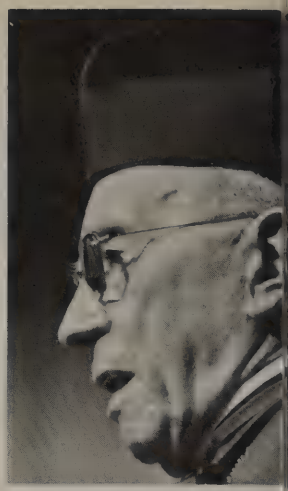
199 RECEIVE DIPLOMAS AS SECOND CLASS GRADUATES







You graduated on June 7. Your class, the class of '66, was ready to graduate. Or were you? As the auditorium filled, you prepared for your last moments as a Stritch student. You were now becoming an alumnus of Cardinal Stritch High School.



Special Awards given at the Second Annual Commencement were as follows:

The Bishop's Cross for Excellence in Religion was awarded to Arthur St. John and Patricia Lohr. The gold cross is given each year to the boy and girl who scored the highest in a comprehensive religion test for those seniors who maintained a four year average of 90 per cent or above in religion.

David Periat and Sharon Tscherne received the Gold Medal for Scholastic Achievement which is given to the boy and girl with the highest scholastic average for four years of high school.

The Charles R. Testa Award for Personal Integrity, a cash award of fifty dollars was received by Patricia Lohr and Richard Rector. This award for personal integrity throughout their four years of high school is awarded on the basis of judgment by the high school faculty.

Susan Kovacs, Carolyn Kreinbrink, and Linda Gladieux were awarded the Toledo Trust Company Award for proficiency in Business Education.

The Oregon Business and Professional Women's Club Scholarship, awarded to girls in the Oregon area interested in continuing their formal education, was given to Janice Dippman.

Thirteen Stritch graduates were awarded scholarships.

Dorothy Caylor, Jerry Mravec, Carol Vincent, and Mary Weber received scholarships from Bowling Green State University.

Sharon King was awarded a scholarship from the Toledo Academy of Beauty Culture.

Patricia Lohr will attend Seton Hill College on a scholarship awarded to her from that college.

Mary Manse College gave scholarships to Theresa Okenka and Ruth Rettenberger.

The University of Toledo awarded scholarships to Sharon Tscherne and Kenneth Torok.

Thomas Vincent was awarded a scholarship from Arkansas Polytechnic College and William Wayton received a scholarship from Penta-County Technical College.

HAWAIIAN SCENE FOR PROM

Your special night finally arrived. May 21, 1966. Loni Pua Kai. Your junior-senior prom.
After many weeks of working, shopping, and anticipation, the social year had reached its climax. You, the juniors and seniors, had worked many long hours over many weekends to make sure this prom would be better than ever.
Hawaiian leis, flowers, palm trees, and sea shells brought an exotic atmosphere to the Secor Hotel Ballroom.
You danced to the music of the Dave Jordan Band and later went to your favorite restaurant for something to eat.
For you though, the night was not over. You went to one of after the prom parties.
And you were glad you were a part of the Stritch scene.

LONG HOURS. . .

HARD WORK. . . FUN. . .

EXISTENCE '66

"That calendar must be wrong! It can't be time for another deadline." That was the cry heard from Room 117 this year,as the staff of Existence '66 started to work. A second cry, well, really a plea, was sent out to all who would listen, "HELP." To answer this call all volunteers had to have two virtues: courage and understanding. It took real courage and lots of understanding to work around people like Tim Weidner, who, when sent out for hot chocolate, came back with cold chocolate milk. Or Joe Falise who raved whenever his name was typed wrong. Or Mary Weber, who picked up the habit of talking to herself. And Bill Berry, who lives near Eckel Junction, on the B. G. Campus.

All kidding aside, I want to thank these wonderful people who made many long days seem shorter and many disappointments easier to take. I'm glad we were together to laugh and joke our way out of our problems. I appreciate the backing to the staff of Existence '66, given by the entire school. And the gentle pushing of our advisor, Mr. K, whose help could never be repaid by mere words. I think we all agree that we couldn't have made it without him.

Thank you all for making this a happy and important year for me.

Sincerely,
Joni Bankertz, Editor
